French Walnut School House Table Modified As A Coffee Table, Circa 1850.

List: $4,250

French walnut school house table that has been cut down to coffee table height with single drawer, wooden pegged legs, circa 1850 [1. During the 19th century, school house tables were popular pieces of furniture in classrooms, particularly in Europe. They were designed to be functional and sturdy, with simple lines and a utilitarian aesthetic. Walnut was a popular choice for these types of tables, as it is a strong and durable wood that can be stained or finished in myriad ways.

This a well-made and long-lasting piece of furniture in very good condition.]
